

HAPPIER TOGETHER

“It is illusion that makes you think that your neighbor is someone other than yourself.”

— Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan

Today is the UN's International Day of Happiness, a global celebration calling for greater emphasis on the happiness and well-being of people around the world. This year's theme is "Happier Together."

At Share & Care, we've seen the positive results of people joining together to create a better world for all. Are you ready to celebrate with us?

SPREAD HAPPINESS

Your donation can provide healthcare for new mothers, education for needy children, empowerment for young girls, and so much more. Here are just a couple examples of how you can help the global community be happier together.

It Takes a Village

"After getting training, I understand that I can change my life. I will be happy to see such transformation in each and every woman in my village." — Basanti Devi

Gender inequality is deeply rooted in traditions and institutions. That's why our Women Empowerment program uses the power of collective efforts – such as self-help groups and peer mentoring – to create real, lasting change for women and their families.

A Better Tomorrow

*"The best part is how our teachers help us feel more confident and happy."
— Swarashree Thale, Std. X*

Our Educate 2 Success program helps underprivileged rural children complete their schooling. We follow a holistic approach that focuses on community awareness as well as on individual empowerment to help students truly thrive.
