

On this Mother's Day, with so many of us separated by social distancing measures, let's come "together" in celebration of our love for moms, mother figures, and other strong women who inspire and challenge us to be our best selves.

At Share & Care, our mission to honor and uplift women is woven into the fabric of our organization, and it shapes everything we do — from providing meals to widowed mothers affected by COVID-19 and sending lifesaving healthcare to expectant women and their newborns, to ensuring boys and girls have equal access to education, and so much more.

Through our dedicated Women Empowerment program, we are currently working with multiple trusted and highly vetted NGOs — such as Pradan and Sabarmati Ashram — to empower India's most vulnerable women, teens, and children across Maharashtra, Gujarat, Rajasthan, West Bengal, and Jharkhand ... with the goal of reaching a total of 20,200 women this year alone.

With Pradan, we're mobilizing women in poor communities to improve their livelihoods through self-help groups. Through her SHG, Jogni Devi (pictured) received training on livestock rearing, a skill to supplement her family's income. See Jogni's story here.

Our Pradan partners and volunteers are delivering rations to struggling families affected by COVID-19 government lockdowns.

Our support for Sabarmati Ashram actively addresses safety, gender equality, character building, and leadership skills for young women, so that gender biases are not passed on to future generations.
