

KIDS4KIDS - COMPASSION IN QUARANTINE

Learn about upcoming virtual events — and more!

Amid these challenging times, members of Share & Care Kids4Kids (ages 12-18) remain dedicated to making a positive difference in the world. From 3D-printing supplies for frontline workers to engaging supporters online in new and creative ways, these young philanthropists prove that compassion and action are possible even in the face of adversity.

Fundraising Successes

Just before COVID-19 took hold, each K4K member recruited three new members — not only increasing participation and interest in the group, but also increasing the total funds raised. (Each new member donated $130.) These funds provided an additional 23 underprivileged students in India with tuition, notebooks, and pencils, and raised the total number of children funded to 255. The K4K members are working hard towards their goal to educate 500 children.

In recent months, the group shifted their efforts to focus solely on raising funds for COVID-19 disaster relief. To date, they have raised nearly $2,900 for this cause.

"Kahoot" Trivia Game

Last month, K4K members held a virtual trivia game fundraiser on a website called Kahoot. The game consisted of 30 general knowledge questions to be answered quickly and correctly in order to receive the most number of points. It was a successful and fun event for all who participated.

Compassion During COVID-19

In an inspiring act of kindness, K4K member Sujan Munver recently made and donated 75 3D-printed face shields for police officers and public works employees in his community. In the image to the right, Sujan is commended by the mayor of Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey for this thoughtful donation.
