

HELPING HANDS ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

“Traveling and experiencing an environment that is way different than the one in America gives us a valuable perspective of the big world we live in.”

— Share & Care Kids4Kids

Earlier this month, nine members of Share & Care Kids4Kids traveled to Mumbai, India to spend time with beneficiaries enrolled in our Educate 2 Success program for at-risk students.

Kids4Kids, a group composed of ambitious young teenagers, aims to help improve education for kids in India. During their trip, the group taught children in a municipal school and volunteered in an after-school center.

Below are the teens' reflections on the experience, in their own words:

“Since the first day the kids have given us hope and wonderful memories that we will carry throughout our lives. It is an education to the kids as well as us to keep learning, growing, and changing.”

— Neil Parikh

“Seeing these kids so eager to learn and ready to build friendships was absolutely amazing. The memories I have made here will change me for the better.”

— Yash Mehta

“We chose to travel to India to volunteer because we saw how other people were struggling to get an education. We believe that everyone deserves an equal opportunity, and so we came to India to provide them with the education that they lack.”

— Krish Sheth, Parth Mehta, and Rishin Shah
