MY DAD
IS MY HERO

Education is the Key to a Better Life

In honor of all fathers on Father's Day, we want to introduce you to a hero you've never heard of.

His name is C. Raj Kumar. He works long hours as a company laborer in rural Tamil Nadu, earning ₹10,000 a month to support a family of five. He doesn't make headlines. No one pins medals on his chest. But to his son Vasanth: "My father is my hero."

Vasanth is 19 years old and studying radiography and imaging technology at Chengalpattu Medical College. Every semester, he faces not only academic challenges but financial ones — the kind that can hinder even the most determined students. But his father never let that happen. Through long workdays and difficult finances, Raj Kumar showed up every day. He believed and kept reminding his son that education is the key to a better life.

His father's unwavering belief — and a scholarship through Share & Care Foundation's Educate to Graduate (E2G) program — changed everything.

Today, we're honoring the quiet strength of fathers like Raj Kumar. Fathers who sacrifice without seeking recognition and believe in a brighter future, even when others do not.

If you'd like to help more students like Vasanth find that same foundation of support, consider making a gift today. You won't just be funding a scholarship, you'll honor every father who ever worked tirelessly so his child could dream bigger.
